

A taste for tea

Climate, soil and the way it is processed, gives each tea its own unique character.

In all countries around the world tea is a popular beverage.
Not only regular black tea, but also other varieties such as rooibos, mate and mint tea have become popular.

Tea is part of someone's lifestyle; and so many people have so many tastes.
In addition to the usual application as a hot drink, other applications are possible.

For example 'matcha and cake'. The fresh, floral and green notes combine surprisingly well with the sweet and cream tonalities of the cake.

Especially in the aftertaste, the delicate green tea flavour is picked up.
We developed this green tea with matcha tea serving as a starting point.

Our new tea portfolio consists of liquid flavours, all with natural flavouring declaration:

Black tea, green tea & rooibos.

If you want to try one of these flavourings, please do not hesitate to request a sample.
